TNA PRESIDENT'S LETTER
Kirk Menczer

I'm writing this letter a week before the winter Board of Governors meeting to be held in Ft Worth on October 31,1998 One item which will be discussed is the elimination of two TNA districts Districts II and XVII have no member clubs and have no district Governor We have been unsuccessful in filling these governorships for several years Most District Governors are club members and communicate to TNA members via club meetings as well as other means Therefore, I will recommend these districts be merged into existing districts with active Governors This will give the TNA members in these two districts representation at the TNA Board of Governors for the first time in several years and it is long overdue

In this TNA News issue we are asking for nominations for officers who will be installed at the Spring TNA Show in Houston in 1999 The positions to be filled are:

President
1st and 2nd Vice President
Treasurer
Secretary
TNA News Editor
All District Governors

This is your opportunity to directly influence the course of the TNA in the next millennium Please submit your nominations to Barbara Lowell our Secretary at 1846 Rosemeade #292, Carrollton, TX 75007 If you are interested in serving as an officer or Governor but aren't comfortable nominating yourself please call or write me and we will find a way for you to serve the TNA

The recent dramatic swings in the equity market triggered by the economic turmoil in Asia, is having a predictable effect on the rare coin and precious metals market Although, price increases have been modest, volume has been very active There is still a large enough group of people who flee to rare coins and precious in times of economic instability that there impact on the market can be readily felt Add to that the concerns many people have regarding the FY2000 problem The impact of the FY2000 problem is now only 12-15 months away The outlook for precious metals and investment grade numismatic coins is very bright over the next year

What about the ordinary coin collector? He also is more active now than in the last few years. The biggest problem the collector has is access to coins to look through Naturally, I am most familiar with San Antonio, where I live There is only one shop in San Antonio which maintains a reasonably sizeable inventory which is accessible to the general public Many dealers now are predominately wholesalers to other dealers since the difference between "wholesale" and "retail" is so small This leaves the large mail order dealers and coin shows as the largest suppliers to the ordinary collectors I know the difficulty retail dealers have covering overhead on that small difference between bid and ask So I hope you will support your local dealer so he can support you collecting needs We need each other to be to reached our goals

A Few Words From The Editor

Mike Grant

As we are approaching the end of 1998, I reflect back on the numismatic world for this year. We have seen gold stay under $300 an ounce for many months and, silver has fluctuate between $4.65 and $8.00 an ounce depending on who is buying it. The stock market has had yet another wild ride and many people (1.5 million) have become millionaires. Big business is becoming even bigger with all the mergers. The currency collecting has been very strong, and the coin collecting is great.

We are seeing many more coin shows than in previous years, and many more new dealers popping up. This follows any trend, everyone wants to get in on the action. The internet has spurred a tremendous interest in collecting, not just coins, but in everything. People that normally can't get to antique collectors, or bottle collectors, or fuzzy animal collectors can advertise them on sites like Ebay and sell them. Collectors that can't find people to sell them items, will find it on the internet.

The Y2K bug has many people worried about the world computer systems. They are stocking up on groceries, silver, gold, wood, pork bellies. I am not sure this is all that necessary, but it is good for business.

We are in some incredible times with the advanced technology we have. We communicate with people around the world in seconds and travel the globe constantly. These are some of the most uplifting times we have ever had, so enjoy it.

We are also preparing to hold elections for new officers for the TNA this year. Please send in your nominations to the TNA Secretary, or any Governor or Board member and the qualifications for the nomination. The person must also accept the nomination to be qualified. Think this over carefully and pick the people you most want to see running our organization over the next two years.

COINS FOR A's

Jim and Barbara Medford

We must first apologize for extreme tardiness in thanking our many contributors to Coins for A's. We only wish we could blame it on El Nino, like everything else has been. Unfortunately, blame must go to part sloth, part brain death and part busyness. To everyone to whom we have not previously expressed our appreciation, please forgive us. To anyone we have somehow missed and have no record of their donation, please let us know. We have tried to log in and inventory every coin or cash donation that comes in, but this is not a perfect system, by any means. Now, to try to play a little long overdue catchup.

Thanks to:

Ken Horn and the Amarillo Coin Club for 340 coins
Helen Snider of McAllen for a collection of Indian Head Cents
Jeffrey Meyer of Austin for 104 foreign coins
Buddy Bensley of Charlotte Co. Coin Club for a roll of war nickels
Col. Bill Murray of San Antonio for 421 coins

Cash Donations:

Ed Chauncey's Rare Coins	$50.00
Herman Jacobs	$30.00
Rice's Coins	$25.00
Lamonte Pitzer	$20.00
Tanya Pitzer	$ 5.00

Since taking this program over in the summer of 1997, we have responded to coin requests from 88 young people. As many of them have made multiple requests, we have sent out 143 awards over that same period. Since we started using the bubble pack envelopes and having the Post Office weigh the packages and affix postage, we have had no complaints of lost coins. While we are pleased with these results, it still is obvious that a great deal more could be going on. For one thing, many of those 88 students have been one-time clients; we have sent them coins and a letter urging their continued participation, but have never heard from them again. Also, many of our participants are obviously already involved in coin collecting, either in coin clubs themselves or having an adult collector in their families. While we are delighted to be helping these young people continue their collections, we would also hope to be appealing to students who had not previously considered this hobby and getting them interested in a lifetime activity.

While we are thanking benefactors, by the way, we should mention Russell Primzinger, Governor of District 1 and a member of both the Fort Worth and Mid-Cities Coin Clubs. At his own expense, Russ has had flyers printed for Coins for A's and works with educational programs for schools in our area. He has been one of the most active supporters of the program and made many suggestions that have benefitted everyone involved.

And, finally, a little financial news. In November of last year we reported a balance for Coins for A's of $544.34. Since then we have received cash donations of $225.00 and reported expenditures (for US coins and postage) of $280.01. The current balance is $489.33. As previously reported we have resorted to purchasing a few US coins because beginning young collectors frequently request those. These coins have all been purchased either in our own coin club meetings or at TNA shows, and we shop carefully to get a nice quality at an affordable price.

This picture is of four students that turned in their report cards for the entire year and had straight A's in every subject. These students are from the Mid-Cities Coin Club.

TREASURE OF XERXES
HUGE HOARD OF SILVER BURIED CIRCA 450 BC

And now, as he looked and saw the whole Hellespont covered with the vessels of his fleet and all the shore and every plain about Abydos as full as possible of men, Xerxes congratulated himself upon his good fortune; but after a little while he wept. His uncle Artabanus, who was with him at the time, asked about this strange expression of contradictory feelings. "I was thinking," Xerxes replied, "and it came into my mind how pitifully short human life is."

Herodotus VII, 45-46

This moment in history described by the ancient historian Herodotus was perhaps one of the greatest military undertakings in history given the current technology. The accounts relate that the great Persian king Xerxes amassed an army of 1,700,000 men for his invasion of Greece in 480 BC. An entire city was needed to feed the army just two meals, and an entire river ran dry when they drank. And huge quantities of silver coins were struck to finance the massive military payroll and all the expenses of huge military operations. The Hellespont was the water way at least a mile wide connecting the Black Sea and the Mediterranean Sea and separating Europe from Asia Minor. In order to move his vast army Xerxes commanded his engineers, mostly Phoenecians and Egyptians, to build a bridge. To do this 674 ships were tied together in a double row and planks were laid over the decks. The planks were covered with brushwood and dirt to create a road. Xerxes invaded Greece and very nearly succeeded in conquering the civilized world.

As the Persians moved through northern Greece they were met at the pass of Thermopylae, where the 300 Spartans led by Leonidas fought to the last man, and successfully delayed the Persian advance long enough for the Greek cities to prepare. Although Xerxes captured Athens, the Athenians had fled with their fleet to the nearby island of Salamis where the Persian fleet was defeated by the more experienced Athenian navy. The army of the allied Greek city-states, led by Spartans was able to defeat the Persian army at Plataea in 479 BC and effectively ended Xerxes attempted conquest of Greece.

Xerxes is long dead, and his observations on the brevity of human existence still applies today, even though we average more than twice the usual life span of the ancients. By collecting, studying and handling the coins of the ancients our human experience can be greatly enhanced. In our hands we have relics of great kings who commanded huge armies to conquer kingdoms now vanished. These huge treasures of precious metals that are now unearthed from the paths of these ancient armies are sometimes the only tangible links that we have. Now you can expand your horizons to the Fifth Century BC with a modest contribution to the Jonathan K. Kern Co.

This hoard of silver was composed of over 100 pounds of struck siglos. A single siglos averages 5.55 grams of nearly pure silver and depicts the Great King of Persia as an archer in an action pose. Some interpret his posture as the archaic art expression of running and others describe him as kneeling. These coins were struck with a heavy sledge hammer on very thick oblong planchets much like silver bullets with a hand held upper die depicting the archer. The lower die was probably imbedded in wood or stone to secure it. The lower or reverse die of these coins, was used in the manner of the very first coins ever produced in the world. This lower die was a roughly rectangular raised metal lump appearing in hundreds of mysterious variations. The raised reverse die creates an incuse impression for the backs of the siglos. Museum studies now in progress utilize the reverse incused impressions for quick die referencing, since the obverse impression of the Great King is frequently off center. These coins represented a huge explosion in the production of coined money, and were struck rapidly to fill the need for pre-weighed silver authorized by a powerful ruler.

The Great King is shown holding a spear and a bow on the siglos attributed to the Asia Minor mint of Sardeis, in Lydia and a bow and a dagger on the other type which is possibly all from a different mint further south. Frequently they are countermarked with tiny punches by merchants or bankers, possibly to attest to the quality of the silver. We can sell either type in a nice fine grade for $37 each, a nice very fine for $77 each or a nice extremely fine for $277 each. The raised obverse always grades much less than the incused reverse so our nice fine will usually have an extremely fine reverse.

Discounted pair price: one of each type in nice Fine for $70.
Buy your own mini hoard of Persian siglos in nice Fine, with all different reverses in extremely fine: 30 coins for $925.
In nice very fine, one of each type, only $150 for the pair.
For extremely fine coins, no discounts, call first to confirm availability.

TEXAS HERITAGE ARCHIVES & LIBRARY
by Mike Grant

The vintage town of Jefferson offers tourists and Texans a chance to feel like they are in the state's past. In addition to antique shops, restaurants and bed-and-breakfasts is the Texas Heritage Archives and Library.

The two story museum contains some of the earliest known maps of Texas. The museum was the old Haywood House Hotel on Cypress Bayou on Dallas Street in Jefferson. There is a 1513 map showing the first depiction of Texas by cartographer Martin Waldseemuller. Stephen F. Austin published a map in 1835 that is a collector's item hanging in the museum.

Mr. B.B. Barr and John N. Rowe III collected the maps, books, and currency that now adorn the entire museum. An entire wall of bank notes is most impressive. The individual banks issued notes and then recalled most of them as the years rolled by. Thanks to these fine men this portion of Texas' past is preserved for all to see. The collection is considered the largest ensemble of bank notes issued in Texas.

Pictures hang along the stairway to the second floor showing Texas cities form the past. The library on the second floor has a large collection of books in glass bookcases and an impressive library reading table in the center of the room. In another room are various maps and flags of Texas.

The Texas Heritage Archives & Library, a 501(c)(3) non-profit organization, was organized and created in 1994 for the expressed purpose of supporting education and research into the rich historical of Texas. This will be archived through exhibits, symposia, publications and other educational programs. After five years of planning, designing and fund raising (The Hilcrest Foundation's $30,000 grant in 1995 allowed the museum to have the designs completed and funded a portion of the exhibit fabrication), the facility in Jefferson opened to before a gala crowd of Charter Members on December 20,1997. The museum was opened to the public the following day and remains open every day of the year except for four holidays.

The collections housed in the museum are for the first time on public exhibit or accessible in the library. Formerly the prized Texana collections of B.B. Barr and John N. Rowe III, both of Dallas, some 600 original maps, more than 3,000 pieces of currency and 1,000 plus volumes of Texana are now available to the public. Since the opening of the museum, more than 1,400 guests have been through the exhibits and are spreading the work of the museum's existence.

The museum has targeted directly more than 300 school campuses in a 30-county region of Northeast Texas for our educational programs. Contact was made with each of the school districts last spring, informing them of the museum's presence and now either hosting or visiting the 279 public school campuses and providing them a fine 22-map set detailing Texas and the New World form 1513 to the formation of the last of 254 counties in 1931. Funding for this three-year program has been proposed to 17 regional and state foundations.

The museum expects to serve primarily the area public school campuses teaching both Texas and American history. Add to those 279 campuses the dozen or so colleges and universities and one finds more than a quarter-million students who will benefit from the presence of the museum. During the summer months, history teachers from several public schools and even Dallas' St. Marks preparatory school have been by and enthusiastically desired to incorporate the museum and Jefferson into their curriculum.

Through funding provided by various entities and through admissions and book store sales, the Texas Heritage Archives and Library is all about education.

The museum is open from noon to 5pm on Sundays and 9:30am to 5:30pm Monday through Saturday.

The Texas Heritage Archives & Library is located at Dallas and Market Streets. P.O. Drawer 687, Jefferson, TX 75657, (903) 665-1101. Mr. Charles Chitwood is the director of the Library and will be glad to answer any questions about the organization.

Fort Worth Coin Club, (Club Newsletter)

There were 42 members and guests at the Nov meeting. Jim Fitzgerald gave the program on "Fort Worth Bank Notes". The show on Oct 30th was a success and is already sold out for 1999. The new officers were selected for 1999. The Dec Christmas party will be at the Care-A-Lot Inn on Dec 3rd. The attendance is up at every meeting and it looks like the club will need a larger meeting room. Dues are now payable for the 1999 year.

The Fort Worth Coin Club held its 37th Annual Coin Show Oct 31 & Nov 1st. In its continuing effort to bring numismatics to the community, especially its young people, the club held its first Youth Auction. A total of 38 children signed up for the auction and were each given a Red Book, Coin Collecting Starter Kit, lot listing, bidder number and $20 worth of "Kids Kash". The children, along with their parents, bid on a total of 99 lots which included US type coins, mint and proof sets, commemoratives, world coins and other numismatic items. A choice uncirculated Morgan dollar was given away at the end of the auction in a drawing. The lucky winner just happened to be the first child to sign up. Frank Provased, a registered auctioneer and member of the club, gave a short, informative description of each lot. The response of the children was very enthusiastic, yet they were very prudent with their "Kids Kash", trying to get the best price on each lot. After the auction there were many smiling faces as the children showed their successful efforts to each other and their parents.

All the lots in the auction were donated by club members. In addition generous coin dealers across the country resp9onede to letters written by Russell Prinzinger, Chairman of the Youth Auction, by sending coins, books and other numismatic items.

The success of the auction was brought about by the enthusiasm and hard work of the members of the club and the generosity of all who contributed.

The Fort Worth Coin Club meets the 1st Thursday of each month at the Fort Worth Botanical Gardens, at 7:00pm.
